SUBJECT	Chief People Officer Lorraine Murphy to leave Air New Zealand

Air New Zealand's Chief People Officer Lorraine Murphy is leaving Air New Zealand in March to take up the role of Group Executive People with National Australia Bank in Melbourne.

Commenting on the move, Air New Zealand Chief Executive Officer, Christopher Luxon said; "This is a terrific opportunity for Lorraine and it is a great reflection of the esteem our senior leaders are held in by the international market. Lorraine has made an outstanding contribution to Air New Zealand over the past three years and we have been fortunate to have someone of her world class expertise and leadership skills to transform the People function of our business. In regard to replacing Lorraine's role of Chief People Officer on the Executive, we are fortunate to have a strong pool of internal and external candidates to consider in the New Year."
