DMP First Quarter Results FY 2007

Australian-owned and operated Domino's Pizza Australia New Zealand Limited advises that, based on management accounts, its net profit after tax for the first quarter of FY 2007 was $1.2M below budget.

CEO Don Meij said the first quarter's results are disappointing and makes the following comments:

1. The below-budget first quarter results in Australia were due to lower-than-expected sales and margin decline. Sales and margin have been lower due to three recent sales promotions not performing. This has had a bigger impact in Victoria, the Company's newest Australian market, with non-mature stores experiencing lower base sales.
2. Same store sales for the first quarter are down 0.85% for Australia compared to FY 2006.
3. The recent European acquisition is performing well and is going to plan.
4. The New Zealand market is also performing well and is currently ahead of expectations.
5. The Company's management team is making adjustments to its strategy for sales promotions.
6. Store openings are continuing in all countries and the Company believes that, once its sales promotions are back on track, sales and margin are expected to revert to plan.

The Board has considered the implications of the first quarter results on previous earnings guidance given by the Company and concluded that it is too early to provide any revised full-year FY 2007 earnings guidance at this time. Further earnings guidance will be offered by the Company as appropriate.
